Here are some video's of the Desert wells OHV area near Apache Junction AZ! I spent a few days with a compadre riding there! The first two are just the camera mounted on the Pilot shows the area off pretty well, the third is a CSI of the wreck... No I didn't have the camera on when I wrecked!!!

Enjoy!

It landed on its side hard enough to pop the bead in rear tire and fold up the front a arms, then settled on all 4...

Re: Flip Flopped the Pilot!

Did the steering lock up? Wow that Pilot A-arm took a beating.

Well smarty pants since you brought it up... NO IT DIDN'T!!!
 I had it up and running again in a matter of hours once I swapped the CORRECT parts! Good thing it wasn't the odyssey because I know replacement parts for it wouldn't be send or the wrong parts would be sent...

Thanks for asking though!!!

Wow thanks for such a kind answer no wonder you get so much grief from the community.

Are you having trouble getting wrong parts through Randy?

Community? I only get grief from a handful of yahoo's like the above comments! Did I say anything in my videos or post about my steering problems in my odyssey? I have figured out how to fix the poor steering stop design on my aftershock product! If you like I can post a thread here as I have on Home To Pilot's And Odyssey's so others won't have the same issues I have had! Simply put the pilot has a built in steering stop much like an atv, and the a-arm kit removes the stock steering stop on the odyssey and replaces it in an un-safe manner. Siplly "beefing" up the flimsy metal that the hiem joint/slider is bolted thru should prevent the safety issues!

Consider the thread my contribution to the community! Of which I see no contributions from you on Home To Pilot's And Odyssey's

I have never had any trouble getting parts or service from Odyssey Salvage! He even lets me return products for credit if what I ordered isn't up to my demanding spec's! I ride and race off road, not on a groomed track, so I am going to be a lot more demanding on quality parts! Randy has never sent me anything that was missing parts without a note enclosed and a phone call telling me something was back ordered! I did recieve a long travel kit with some definate pieces missing/not being shipped, and shipped the wrong pieces!

Again, Randy at Odyssey Salvage has always had great customer service and I will continue to spend my money with him! He is a great asset to the community!!!
